Guardian Select Fabricator Certification (for coated glass)

Guardian Select Fabricators are trained and certified by Guardian to meet rigorous and exacting standards for glass fabrication. Their heat-treatment equipment is specially designed to handle coated glass, and they typically have high-speed, vertical insulating glass lines that manufacture dual-seal insulated glass units to commercial specifications. In addition, independent Select Fabricators have access to Guardian's Applications Engineering group for guidance and recommendations, including wind load analysis, thermal stress, special applications and more. All of this prepares Select Fabricators to respond to virtually any building challenge with shorter lead times and faster response rates, so that your project can be completed on time. - See more at:
